

SRIJA'S COLOURS

Srija was five years old and loved to draw. Her mother worked in a lot of houses, cleaning and cooking. Sometimes, Srija went with her mother to these houses.

One day, Kirti in Flat 9 gave her some crayons from her old box of colours.

There was a half broken blue and an almost new red. Then there was a stub of a yellow colour. The green was also half broken. And there was a brown colour too.

Srija ran home that day, very excited.

Now what could Srija draw with these colours?

Write/draw your thoughts and ideas and send them in to thinkingteacher22@gmail.com